Much like its sister the Loire, whose main confluence it is, River Allier is often considered as «one of the last large wild rivers in Europe». Endowed with a very varied course over 425 km long, River Allier has indeed a very active river dynamics of its bed and a great ecological richness. This excursion will guide the visitors along three types of landscape designed by the river.
Local Governance of Landscape Linked to Agro-Ecological Transitions along Allier River